Hurricane Sandy Update

The devastation caused by Hurricane Sandy had a direct impact on so many of us in the St. Francis College community. Our thoughts, well-wishes and heartfelt support go out to everyone struggling to rebuild their homes and their lives.

Because this issue was at press at the time of the storm, it was too soon for us to include specifics on the College's efforts to help those in need. Please check our website at sfc.edu for information on efforts to help with the recovery.

MESSAGE FROM PRESIDENT BRENDAN J. DUGAN '68

While St. Francis College is always looking to the future as well as working on ways to improve the college experience, sometimes we need to look back and see where we've been and why we're here.

In this issue, we'll tell you about the Franciscan Pilgrimage that we've been sponsoring since 1996. Each year, we send a group of faculty, staff and administrators, as well as a separate pilgrimage of students, to literally walk in the footsteps of St. Francis (page 5) in the Italian hill town of Assisi. When the pilgrims return, they share their experiences with the larger St. Francis community. It's a great way to reaffirm our Franciscan tradition and remember the reasons why we work so hard to help our students.

Also in this issue, you'll get to meet some of our outstanding alumni, young and old, including Dominic DePaola '64 and his wife, Rosemarie, who have been longtime supporters of St. Francis. Among his accomplishments, Dominic has been Dean of several dental colleges and universities and now serves as Academic Dean of Nova Southeastern University College of Dental Medicine (page 11).

Sandy Tejada '08 left St. Francis with all the tools she needed to manage her own modeling career (page 20) while Terrisha Kearsse '05 recently returned to Brooklyn to work on a feature film as she keeps her Hollywood dreams alive (page 19).

In a case of "where are they now," we'll check in with Robbie Mitchell '96 and his wife, Clare Guerriero '93. Some of you may remember them because of where Robbie proposed to Clare... on stage during his 1996 commencement at the Brooklyn Academy of Music (page 18).

Tyler Perkins '14 is a throwback to the liberal arts students of old. His belief in a sound mind and body as well as his strong desire to learn offers lessons to all of us (page 3); it's not just about the final destination but what you learn along the way, about the world and yourself, that makes that journey more interesting.

Before we say hello to the newest member of our community, first we say goodbye, with deepest gratitude, to Bro. Thomas Grady, O.S.F. '68. After 16 years of shepherding students through Campus Ministry and Choir, Bro. Thomas is retiring (page 7). With that we offer a hearty welcome to Fr. Brian Jordan, O.F.M., from the Holy Name Province of the order of Friars Minor, who will continue the work of helping our students in their spiritual development.

A big thank you also goes out to each and every one of you for making all of this possible. Your successes and your generous support of St. Francis College have laid the foundation for us to create an atmosphere where anything is possible. The word is getting out to a wider audience. Not only is Brooklyn the place to be, so is St. Francis College. The proof? Our incoming class this fall was our largest ever. That's why our Donor Report (page 22) thanks each of you individually for helping to make a difference.

Sincerely,

Brendan J. Dugan '68

Francis J. Greene Honors Lecture: Michael Pierson

By Alia Kasem '13

SEPTEMBER 17

Michael Pierson

The St. Francis College Honors Program honored the group's long time moderator Dr. Francis J. Greene at its opening event of the fall semester with the inaugural Francis Greene Honors Lecture. Scholar Michael Pierson, a Civil War historian opened the lecture by asking questions about the Civil War and by describing the impact the war continues to have on our lives today. He focused on the 13th, 14th and 15th Amendments then spoke about his upcoming biography about Civil War soldier Lt. Stephen Spalding of Vermont. Spalding wrote an unusually candid and celebratory seven-page letter about a night of carousing in New Orleans.

Constitution Day

By Alia Kasem '13

SEPTEMBER 20

The Thomas More Pre-Law Society with Accounting and Business Law Professor Miriam Salholz looked at "Constitutional Contrasts" between the United States Constitution and the constitutions of the People's Republic of China and the Republic of Serbia. The event began with moderator of the Society, Business Law Professor Miriam Salholz, followed by Natasha Edwards '14 who spoke about China and Aleksander Jakovljević '15 who covered the Serbian Constitution. Edwards said the Chinese and American constitutions lay out a similar court system and that, as in the United States, the Chinese have added and removed amendments to suit their society as it moves forward.

Jakovljević pointed out that the current Serbian constitution was less than 10 years old, and because of recent wars and changing governments, was the fifth constitution for the country in the past 65 years. He explained that like the U.S., Serbians had a system of checks and balances and separation of power, but elections were based on a proportional voting system, like those found in many European democracies. The event commemorated the 225th anniversary of the signing of the U.S. Constitution on September 17, 1787.

Thomas J. Volpe Lecture Series: Frank Bruni

SEPTEMBER 27

Frank Bruni

The 2012 Thomas J. Volpe Lecture Series speaker, New York Times Op-Ed Columnist Frank Bruni, spoke about why he says the best candidates for office don't run and offered advice on how the political debate can be made more civil. Bruni, the Times' former food critic and author of the memoir Born Round said, "There are many ways in which this process has become harder and more unattractive for the people who might contemplate doing this... we're not getting some of the best people in the political arena." He said one way to make the political process better is for people to change the way they interact with each other. "Until we all talk to each other in a more respectful way and until we all acknowledge that people have differences of opinion that don't make them idiots or don't make them corrupt or don't make them evil, I don't think we're ever going to be able to work together or get anything done in Washington," said Bruni.

Career Boot Camp

OCTOBER 13, 14

St. Francis alumni Al DiGuido '78 and Joe Hemway '84 with the Offices of Development and Alumni Relations hosted the College's first-ever Boot Camp, a two day program for alumni and students involving a series of interactive drills that focus on developing each person's personal brand and unique selling proposition.

"We believe it's important to provide our young Terriers with a real world sense of what it will take to achieve their dreams in this challenging economic environment," said DiGuido. "Those who market themselves as a solution to their employers' specific needs will help them rise above all other candidates in contention for specific positions."

"This is not only going to help us in securing a job but it helps in life in general," said Boot Camper Sophia Boussalh '13. "I have learned the importance of finding creative ways to separate myself from the crowd, being persistent, confident and most importantly, working hard to succeed."

Hemway described this event as a "first-step in our alumni engagement initiative that encourages all to be more actively involved with SFC life and to bring the Franciscan mission to where we live and where we work."

Tyler Perkins '14

A Classic Liberal Arts Education

In a world where so much attention is focused on outcomes and results, Tyler Perkins '14 is a refreshing reminder that education for education's sake is not only worthwhile but something to which we should aspire.

"I'm always looking to provoke something inside of me, to get me to think in a new way or see something differently," said Perkins, a double major in English and Philosophy and member of the Honors Program.

That's why you'll find him at a steady stream of extracurricular lectures by authors and experts. "Why pass it up? You never know what you're going to hear," he added. Those events, he says, have had a direct effect on his education.

Attendance last year at a "Reflections on 9/11" talk with Dr. Francis Greene and Bro. Edward Wesley prompted Perkins to enroll in the Fall 2012 seminar "9/11 in Literature, Art and Film" taught by Professor Athena Devlin.

Indeed, Devlin, along with other professors like Sophie Berman (Philosophy), Jonathan Chalker (Philosophy), Wendy Galgan (English), and Emily Horowitz (Criminal Justice) have inspired Perkins and helped him lay out his goal of becoming a college professor himself.

"When I came to St. Francis I wanted to be a lawyer. But I saw that everything I liked about being a lawyer is what I like about being a professor, things like research and reading," said Tyler who hails from Erie, PA, and is still getting adjusted to city air compared to the wide open spaces back home.

"When I came to St. Francis I wanted to be a lawyer. But I saw that everything I liked about being a lawyer is what I like about being a professor, things like research and reading..."

As for his double major, Perkins said he likes the logical arguments in Philosophy and the poetic side in Literature. It's even better when the two ideas come together, he says. "When I read [René] Descartes, I can sit down and read it as a book, not just for philosophical content."

His thirst for knowledge and the ability to turn every experience into a learning opportunity led Perkins to an unusual summer activity last year. Professor Horowitz suggested he attend Feminist Camp, hosted by authors and activists Jennifer Baumgardner and Amy Richards. As the only male in the group, Perkins wasn't sure how he would be received but found that his opinion was valued. He also found it enlightening to see first-hand how a non-profit organization operates and how it provides services.

In addition to his academic pursuits, Perkins is a member of both the Men's Water Polo and Swim teams. "I lived with six Serbians last year and learned a lot about water polo and water polo communities around the world. It's very different than what we have here."

While having so many international students on the team is educational, he admits that some things are easier now with an influx of Americans. "I don't have to explain as many cultural references."

Balancing two majors, two sports teams, countless special events, the Honors Program and working as a research assistant for Professor Horowitz definitely has Perkins stretched thin. But he wouldn't have it any other way. "I may not have as much time as some other people to devote to everything I do, but I always give everything I have," he said. •

Science Labs and Teleconferencing

Major renovations and upgrades continue at St. Francis with the complete overhaul of the sixth floor of the Sciences and Technology building. Four multi-purpose labs are now complete for Biology, Chemistry, Physics and Health Promotion courses giving students the opportunity to take part in state-of-the-art research and experimentation.

A new stadium-seating lecture hall is also on the sixth floor, with multiple video screens, microphones and outlets at each desk. The lecture hall is also set up to be a teleconferencing hub. Students can be a part of lectures by experts from around the world while our professors can broadcast their lectures to audiences around the globe.

This is the second floor of labs to get a top-to-bottom renovation in the past two years.

A Personal Look at Historic Brooklyn

Five St. Francis College students were given a window into the Brooklyn of the mid-1800s this summer working with original source material at the Brooklyn Historical Society. The Students and Faculty in the Archives (SAFA) Fellowship gave Veronica Benitez '14, Sascha Ealey '13, Glenys Rodriguez '13, Krystal Williams '14, and Tenzin Yeshay '12 access to the Society's 19th century Gabriel Furman collection.

"To our knowledge, this fellowship program is the only one of its kind for undergraduate students in the United States," said Julie Golia, public historian at the Historical Society and co-director of the fellowship. "It was an extremely competitive process selecting the fellows. We asked a lot of them and they all came through with excellent work."

Furman wrote more than 13 journals between 1816 and 1854 that covered topics on early Brooklyn including commerce and economics, agriculture and food, gender and marriage, Native Americans, Brooklyn neighborhoods, and urbanization and development.

"As an English major, I enjoyed researching the Gabriel Furman journals. I found the cholera epidemic to be most interesting. I took it upon myself to try something new and do further research in the medical field," said Benitez.

"The students who participated in the fellowship had an extremely diverse range of interests, and the program allowed them to link all of their unique fields and areas of expertise to a theme from Furman's journals," said History Professor Sara Haviland who taught three of the fellows last spring. "The event showed how an archive of one man's reflections can expose students to a wide array of fields of inquiry."

At the end of the summer, the students helped curate an exhibition on their research and offered presentations to a standing room-only crowd at the Historical Society. (See the presentations at <http://safo.brooklynhistory.org/fellowship2012/>)

"Working together across disciplines, the fellows crafted an impressive tribute to Furman's fascinating life," added Professor Haviland.

"I was proud to present what I had learned and I deeply appreciate the gratitude that was shown towards my work as well as the support of Veronica Benitez '14, Glenys Rodriguez '13, Tenzin Yeshay '12, and Sascha Ealey '13.

Brooklyn Historical Society staff," added Benitez.

New Business Awards: Entrepreneurs Get Real World Experience

St. Francis College student Marissa Bernard '13, won first place and a check for $1,000 from Capital One Bank for her business plan to start a computer repair service focusing on PCs and phones in the first presentation of New Business Awards at the College.

The New Business Awards are the culmination of the course, Project Management for Entrepreneurs, taught by Professor Barbara Edington, PMP, Director of the College's Center of Excellence in Project Management. During class, St. Francis alumni and executives from Capital One mentored students to help them develop business plans for small companies. The students then presented a five-minute pitch to a panel of judges.

"This course was designed to bridge the gap between the business plan and the reality of opening the doors of your new business venture," said Professor Edington. "Students learned the tactical methodology based on project management which is critical to implement their vision."

"I really liked that we were treated like legitimate entrepreneurs," said Bernard who will stress personal attention and detail to make her business succeed. "Our mentors made so many good points that I should've thought of. It was really helpful."

Second place and $750 went to Sean Parsons '13 for his creation of proprietary stock trading software that can be used for personal and professional users.

Travis Joseph '13 earned $500 for his business plan to create an after-school disc jockey program.

UPDATE:

Prompt Mailers is Now Prompt Direct

Last issue, we told you about Professor Jeannette Bartley Robertson's '00 Marketing Management course that studied the company, Prompt Mailers, for a project on rebranding.

"At the end of the semester, each group had to present their idea not only to our professor, but also to Dennis Lacognata '76, a St. Francis alumnus and a partner at Prompt Mailers," said Michael Corsino '12. "To my surprise, my partner and I had positive feedback and ours was seen as the most creative and well-thought-out presentation."

We are happy to report that as a result of Corsino's work, the company is now called, Prompt Direct: First Class Marketing Solutions. Even better, after his internship, Corsino was hired full-time as a Data Programmer and Social Media Specialist.

"Some of the traits that Michael exhibited here during his internship that led to the employment offer with Prompt Direct were his inquisitive nature, his willingness to jump in and help wherever needed, his drive to succeed and a winning personality," said Lacognata. "We consider the internship project with St. Francis a success story."

In the Footsteps of St. Francis Pilgrimage to Assisi

By Meghan Lewitt

Michele Hirsch recalls a day during her 2002 pilgrimage to the medieval town of Assisi, Italy, when she discovered a small chapel on a hill overlooking the Basilica of St. Francis.

"It was a quiet time to sit and think about life, and everything that we had learned. It was really a life-changer for me," said St. Francis' Assistant Dean of Academic Affairs.

"It doesn't matter what faith you're coming from as long as you're open to a different experience," said Hirsch, who is Jewish. "Franciscanism can be for everybody... it's a way of being and interacting with the world."

The College was founded on the teachings of St. Francis and the Franciscan values of hospitality, tolerance, and service. When Brendan J. Dugan '68 became President of St. Francis in 2008, one of the first decisions he made was to continue to fund the annual pilgrimage to Assisi — the birthplace of St. Francis — for students, faculty, staff, and administrators.

"We send a total of six people on this 10-day pilgrimage each year, but their experiences have a cascading, positive impact on the entire St. Francis community," said President Dugan.

The pilgrimages began in 1996 when the Franciscan Brothers of Brooklyn invited College Chancellor Frank J. Macchiarola '62 to take part in one soon after he became President of the College.

"Mary (Macchiarola) and I had an amazing experience and felt this was an important thing for members of the College to see for themselves," said Dr. Macchiarola. "Assisi is a holy city. The entire spirit of love and God permeates the place. Learning about the Franciscan way of life, right from the source, produces an enormous positive result."

"Assisi is a holy city. The entire spirit of love and God permeates the place. Learning about the Franciscan way of life, right from the source, produces an enormous positive result." — Frank J. Macchiarola '62

The diversity and welcoming nature of the city also reflect the values of the College, he noted.

Pilgrimages for members of the St. Francis College community began the following fall. And in 2002, a separate trip that spans Christmas and New Year's was added, this one for students. So far, 31 students have made the pilgrimage including 10 during the College's 150th Anniversary celebration in 2008.

Lauren Ventrone '12 went on a pilgrimage last December. She said the opportunity to walk in the footsteps of St. Francis with other students who were facing many of the same life decisions had a profound impact on her future.

"The pilgrimage really got me to focus on what was important in my life," said Ventrone, who graduated with an English major and minors in Fine Arts and Philosophy and will soon begin graduate work at Sotheby's Institute of Art in Manhattan. "It gave me the ability to stop and think and consider what I was doing in life instead of following the path that I had laid out for myself."

Both trips are hosted by the Franciscan Pilgrimages Program and led by experienced religious leaders. Applicants must write an essay about the meaning of the core Franciscan values in their lives, and what they hope to bring back from the experience. Pilgrims begin with seven days in Assisi, walking in the footsteps of St. Francis, and learning about his life and teachings. The trip concludes with three days in Rome, which gives participants a wider context of both past and present Franciscan traditions.

"I'd been to Assisi 14 times for conferences and meetings, but on my 15th trip, the pilgrimage, I experienced Assisi in a whole different way," said Bro. Thomas Grady '68, who coordinated all the student trips. "No one had previously explained the rich history of the city. Even after 48 years as a Brother, the trip led me to a new and deeper interest in St. Francis. There is a lot we can learn from his life that is still very relevant today."

Learning about the teachings of St. Francis and visiting the historical sites that had been significant in his life meant that, "for seven days I had Francis's shoes on," said Technology Training Associate Sue Mulderrig, who went on the fall 2010 pilgrimage. Through the tours, lectures and prayer, Mulderrig said she better understood how far ahead of his time St. Francis was in preaching tolerance and respect for others.

"There's so much charm and so much character, there's almost an air of spirituality to Assisi because of who St. Francis was," she said. "I think it made me more aware of what it means to be Franciscan and it made me appreciate the College's desire to make that 'Franciscan spirit' palpable in the building and to take it out beyond the doors and walls."

Father André Cirino, O.F.M., Franciscan author and pilgrimage guide to many of those from the College, traveled to Assisi for the first time in 1980 and was deeply inspired by his experience there. "The more I delved into the world of Franciscan theology, spirituality and history, the more energy seemed to flow through me. Then, in summer of 1983, the director of Franciscan Pilgrimage Programs called me after I returned from my third visit to Assisi to invite me to become part of their staff. I jumped right in."

Fr. André noted that the experience of a pilgrim is very different from that of a casual visitor or tourist. Pilgrims seek to be deeply affected by their experience, and the focus is on the journey as much as the destination.

"In Assisi, I found a rock and I walked around the entire trip with that rock," said Cindy Luz Hernandez '13, who traveled as a student in 2010. "It just felt good to hold the rock and I decided to bring it home with me so when I start feeling depressed or when I start feeling alone I have the rock to hold on to. It's just something small. Then during the SGA Club Fair, I gave out little rocks that said things like 'trust,' 'faith,' 'hope,' and 'strength.'"

"Most important, my relationship with God strengthened," said Hernandez.

"I see a spark of spiritual journey in our students before they go," added Bro. Thomas. "And when they return, that spark has become a flame." •

Who Was St. Francis of Assisi?

By Meghan Lewitt

St. Francis was born Francesco di Bernardone in the central Italian hill town of Assisi in 1181 or 1182. The son of a wealthy cloth merchant, he spent his early years living a luxurious and, by many accounts, decadent lifestyle. In 1202, he was taken prisoner during one of the many wars between Assisi and neighboring Perugia. He contracted a serious illness during his captivity which endured well after his release and return to Assisi.

When he recovered, he believed God was calling him to a radically different way of life, a life of poverty dedicated to the care of the poor and the sick. In the face of his father's public and pronounced disapproval, Francis renounced all possessions and turned to prayer, humble service and the preaching of the gospel. His dramatic turn-around drew many followers who mirrored his ideals.

Responding to his growing number of disciples, Francis founded the Order of Friars Minor in 1209, and three years later, with his friend, Clare of Assisi, established the contemplative women's order now known as the

The statue of St. Francis outside Founders Hall.

"Poor Clares." Francis died at the age of 44. Two years later, Pope Gregory IX pronounced him a saint.

Francis of Assisi's worldview delighted in the wonder of God's creation in everyone and everything. The modern environmental movement's adoption of him as its patron saint is no surprise. Numerous stories celebrate Francis' ability to communicate with animals as well as his love for the natural world.

Francis' work with the poor and sick was also exemplary. Francis embraced and assisted those with leprosy in sharp contrast to a society that treated lepers as outcasts. In the midst of the Fifth Crusade, Francis travelled to Egypt and met with the ruling sultan in an attempt to end the fighting.

To this day, the Franciscan Friars follow in the footsteps of their namesake in their commitment to a life of humility, compassion and obedience. The Franciscan model of education is rooted in a Christ-centered theology and a philosophy that reflects the values and teachings of Francis of Assisi.

Bro. Thomas Grady Retires Father Brian Jordan to Head Campus Ministry

“When I started there was no formal Campus Ministry. We had a priest who came in part time to celebrate Mass a couple of days a week,” said Bro. Thomas Grady, O.S.F. '68 who founded the Ministry shortly after returning to his alma mater 16 years ago.

Then-President Frank J. Macchiarola '62 wanted a full-time Campus Ministry and reached out to Bro. Kevin Smith, O.S.F. who was Superior General of the Franciscan Brothers of Brooklyn. He recommended Bro. Thomas who had recently finished a master's degree in social and public policy at Duquesne University.

Bro. Thomas had previously taught at St. Francis Preparatory School and St. Francis Xavier. He also served as Superior General for 10 years and worked for Catholic Charities in the Office of Prison Ministry.

Helping prisoners return to their daily lives was a transformative experience for Bro. Thomas. “These were people who were in deep trouble. And for many it was the first time they were dealing with what they had done.”

Bro. Thomas witnessed a different type of transformation at St. Francis College for students involved in the Rite of Christian Initiation of Adults (RCIA). “We started with one student and have had a small group every year who want to receive the sacraments for the first time,” he said. “It's great for me to hear the students talk about themselves on a different level and to see their spiritual development.”

The Peer Counseling and Chat and Chew programs are also a source of pride. The student counselors, often times Psychology majors, receive formal training from the Counseling Center and are given a chance to develop skills. For the students, “it's an easy way for people to get stuff off their chest in an informal setting.”

Another high note for Bro. Thomas was the creation of the St. Francis College Choir. “There was no glee club or chorus here and I thought there must be some talented students who wanted to sing. So I just started it up.”

Dr. Macchiarola then connected Bro. Thomas to John Motley, who had spent decades as music director with the NYC Board of Education and led the St. Francis choir until his death in 2011. The choir now performs at numerous functions each year including Commencement, Charter Day and in their own Christmas concert. More recently, the choir became part of the Fine Arts Department where students can earn one credit for their participation.

In December, Bro. Thomas is retiring, leaving a strong Franciscan legacy in his wake. Visiting priests, many of whom are St. Francis alumni, celebrate weekly Masses. The annual Franciscan Week, which was initiated by students, grows each year and has participation from several academic departments.

Watching over all of this at Campus Ministry will now be the very capable Fr. Brian Jordan, O.F.M. Fr. Brian is a Franciscan from the Holy Name Province, which has a connection with the Franciscan Brothers of Brooklyn for over a century.

Fr. Brian has been an ordained Roman Catholic priest for 29 years and holds a Doctor of Ministry from the Andover Newton Theological School. His background includes ministerial service in New York, Massachusetts and Maryland, work with the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service, immigrant advocacy, and service as chaplain at Ground Zero in the months following 9/11.

His expertise also includes matters related to Catholic Social Teaching and the history of multicultural parishes throughout the United States. •

The Alumni Engagement Project: Service Corps Joseph Hemway '84

"Anyone would have done the same thing — it was the right thing to do and I just happened to be there." How often do you hear the good Samaritan say that when asked about their just-in-time heroism? The St. Francis College alumni community has spent the past year building on that very idea: coming together to give back — to the greater communities that it touches. Alumni groups typically want their alma mater to be the best in the world. But there is an ever-growing band of Terriers who want to be the best for the world, as well as SFC.

What began on a sunny summer afternoon last year with a half dozen dreamers has blossomed into The SFC Alumni Engagement Project with more than 100 members and a simple call to arms they believe anyone can agree with: help make the world a better place — together.

"The Brothers inspired us every day with their humble and selfless ways. We want to capture that Franciscan ideal of service and weave it back into the alumni community," said Alumni Board President Joseph Hemway '84. "Helping others as representatives of the College gives us all yet another reason to be proud St. Francis grads — it's our legacy."

Hemway, who is in his second and last term as Board President says this is one way to try to steer the Alumni Board to a more mission-oriented focus instead of just getting people together at the traditional events.

"Events will always remain an important way to maintain our attachment to the College. But there is so much more that we can give and do as a group. Some of our alumni are already doing great things with groups like the Wounded Warriors Project which helps injured service members," said Hemway who is now Vice President of Information Technology & CIO at Pratt Institute. "We're open to any and all ideas and would be happy to work with organizations that alumni are already helping."

One shining example is Al's Angels (www.alsangels.org), run by Al DiGuido '78. DiGuido is also actively involved in establishing this service program at the College. His charity offers holiday meals and gift baskets to children with cancer, rare blood diseases and severe financial hardships.

"I got involved with Al's Angels last year and I don't think I can fully describe what a great feeling it was knowing that we were touching the lives of those we would never see — that is truly Franciscan! Volunteering and service can become an anchor point to bring alumni of all ages back to St. Francis College," added Hemway. "The rewards are in the doing and the benefits stretch well beyond the few hours of time a person contributes."

The plan is to build partnerships with organizations in the New York City area to take advantage of the thousands of alumni who live here, then to spread the service mission to the larger pockets of alumni across the country. The alumni section of the College website will list upcoming opportunities to get involved.

"Our goal is simple. We want to do what's best for the world... let's happen to be there at the right time."

If you would like to participate or have a relationship with a charitable organization that fits this mission, please contact Joseph Hemway at jhemway@sfc.edu. •

Renée Goodstein – A Love For Diversity

For 20 years, Professor Renée Goodstein has seen the Psychology Department grow and change in many ways. At the same time, she says, the Department has remained the same in certain essential ways. “We have always worked as a team. Each faculty member has, and continues to bring, diverse specializations and approaches to psychology. This allows students to learn many perspectives and ways of helping. We also learn from each other.”

Dr. Goodstein comes to Brooklyn from Richmond, VA; her mother was born and raised in the Blue Ridge Mountains but her father was born in Brooklyn. She is a Southerner through and through who stocks her conversations with colorful, rich images that tend to stand out among the more matter-of-fact language used by her students in Brooklyn Heights. Does this translate for her mostly northern students?

“My students are so gracious. They allow me to be who I am. Sometimes, they do give me a hard time about saying ‘y’all,’ but I tell them it’s non-sexist plural!”

Dr. Goodstein received her master’s degree and Ed.M. in Psychological Counseling from Teachers College, Columbia University, and her Ph.D. in Counseling Psychology from Fordham University. In addition to teaching at St. Francis, Dr. Goodstein is Director of Student Affairs for the Institute for International and Cross-Cultural Psychology, and co-moderator of the Psychology Club and Psi Chi International Honor Society in Psychology with Kristy Biolsi. She also serves as supervisor in the Counseling Psychology doctoral program at Teachers College, Columbia University, and has a private psychotherapy practice in Manhattan.

Dr. Goodstein feels fortunate to engage in work that she loves. “I get to teach students in a place that is small enough to allow faculty to get to know our students, mentor them and watch them fly... My students are always teaching me, too. It’s a real conversation.”

Dr. Goodstein also enjoys her clinical work, because “therapy can often be very helpful.”

Dr. Goodstein’s appreciation of the St. Francis community led her to want to celebrate the diversity of the Franciscan spirit. In 1997, with the support of then-College President Frank J. Macchiarola ’62, she helped to create the annual Community Day.

“I love Dr. Mac; he made Community Day possible, and he and Mary (Macchiarola) never missed a year!” Community Day, held each spring, begins with a multicultural mass. Since its inception, “Bro. Thomas Grady has made sure that each of us, no matter our religious orientations, is made to feel welcomed. As a Jew, I was happy when Bro. Thomas asked me to participate in the ‘Prayer of the Faithful’ by speaking Hebrew. Muslims have spoken Urdu; Spanish, Mandarin, Japanese, Hindi, German and many other languages have been spoken at our mass.”

Some past student performances during Community Day include Albanian, Indian, Greek and Latin dance, Arabic rap, and Caribbean, Italian, Croatian and African song.

Initially led by Psychology Chair Jennifer Lancaster, the baton has since passed to Director of Student Affairs Ruben Gonzalez ’04. Under their guidance, the event, now in its 16th year, has continued to thrive and grow. Dr. Goodstein says, “I believe we are all alike and we are all different. Appreciation of diversity is integral to the Franciscan tradition, and something we live and celebrate each day at the College.”

In the classroom, Dr. Goodstein says she feels the responsibility of teaching her students, and enjoys it. “When they get to that moment when their eyes open and they begin to see their own intellectual capacity and the many ways of seeing... it is so beautiful.” She also feels lucky to work with an administration and staff that help each other out and put students’ needs first.

“What a privilege [it is] being part of this community; I love this community,” she said. ●

Dominic DePaola '64

By Alison Lowenstein

With an impressive and lengthy career in dentistry and academia that still continues, Dominic DePaola '64 credits St. Francis College for where he is today. “I would never have gotten here without St. Francis... I will never forget the lessons of St. Francis and the Franciscan spirit,” he said during a recent interview.

Growing up in Brooklyn in the 1960s, Dr. DePaola was the son of working-class parents: His father was a truck driver and his mother was a homemaker/bookkeeper. He attended St. Francis Preparatory Academy before becoming the first person in his family to attend college.

He said that St. Francis College was “an affordable and quality liberal arts school for people who couldn’t afford college, which was remarkable for me.”

Dr. DePaola entered St. Francis as a Biology major, noting that at the time the department had only one faculty member. However, he pointed out, all the department majors became doctors or dentists.

Inspired by a visiting ER doctor, Dr. DePaola said the doctor’s talk “stimulated me to think about medicine.” After graduation, Dr. DePaola went to medical school in Bologna, Italy, with fellow

St. Francis alumni, but after a year, he returned home to help his ailing father. Determined not to give up his dream of pursuing a medical career, he applied to NYU Dental School, where he was offered a spot.

After graduating, Dr. DePaola completed a general dentistry internship at Beth Abraham Hospital in NYC, where he worked with Dr. Oliver Sacks, the acclaimed neurologist who later inspired the 1990 film Awakenings. While working with Dr. Sacks, Dr. DePaola decided to take an academic approach to dentistry. Following Dr. Sacks’ advice to pursue a doctoral degree, Dr. DePaola subsequently earned a Ph.D. in Nutritional Biochemistry and Metabolism at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

More than 30 years later, Dr. DePaola has been the dean of notable dental schools, a prolific author and lecturer, and has published over 75 scholarly articles and chapters in textbooks. He has also edited two texts. In addition, Dr. DePaola has presented more than 700 lectures, seminars and special education courses at universities, foundations, private corporations, professional organizations, and governmental agencies, including the National Institutes of Health. Dr. DePaola serves on the editorial boards of the American Journal of Dentistry, and Dental Abstracts, and has also served on the editorial advisory board of Prevention magazine.

In 2001, Dr. DePaola was awarded an Honorary Membership to the American Dietetic Association (ADA), the only dentist ever so honored, and was elected Vice President of the American Association for Dental Research (AADR) in 2002. The following year, he was elected President of the AADR and is the only person to have served as the President of both the American Dental Education Association and the AADR. He is currently the Academic Dean at Nova Southeastern University College of Dental Medicine.

“For me [St. Francis College] was the place where I really got my career started... It’s a community.
It’s not just a place.”

Yet with all of his successes, Dr. DePaola says he still owes a lot to St. Francis. “For me it was the place where I really got my career started.” He and his wife, Rosemarie, a nurse who attended St. Vincent’s Nursing School, are active in the St. Francis community. Although she didn’t attend the college, Dr. DePaola said, “She knew the kinds of things that were going on with the college.” Both make St. Francis a part of their philanthropic life. Noting that St. Francis is a “special place,” he clarifies by saying, “It’s a community. It’s not just a place.”

Dr. DePaola wants to help others obtain an education at the college. He says he is impressed with the trajectory of St. Francis and that it’s finally getting the recognition it merits. Looking back at his career, he said, “If I didn’t have the opportunity to go to St. Francis College, I wouldn’t know what I would be doing.” •

Giving At The Heart – The 100 Friends of Bro. George Larkin Fund

By Alison Lowenstein

Bro. George Larkin, O.S.F. '60 was a beloved fixture of the St. Francis College campus for decades, doing everything from welcoming students during the first days of class each semester to making rounds in the cafeteria to check on them.

"His office felt like a second home and no matter how busy he was, he always had an open door policy," recalled Chris Long '99 as he talked about how Bro. George embodied the spirit of the school. Long added, "St. Francis started and ended with Bro. George." Chris, along with his sister Eileen Long-Chelales '92 are both involved in The 100 Friends of Brother George Larkin Fund, which is being spearheaded by Long, Long-Chelales and a third alum, Robert Trapp '77.

Bro. George died in 2009 after a brief illness at the age of 75. The three alumni hope that creating this fund will help keep his memory alive for many years. Long-Chelales remarked, "Bro. George was a very important person in a lot of people's lives. There are people who would not have made it through the college experience without him."

She and her brother, Chris, were two of five siblings to attend the College, and both had a deep connection to Bro. George. Eileen worked in his office while at St. Francis and still contacted him for advice long after graduation. Chris said, "I made sure, when I walked out the doors to say thank you and say goodbye. He was larger than life in terms of the school."

The goal of the 100 Friends is to invite 100 alumni and friends of Bro. George to make a commitment to give or raise $10,000 each, over the span of 10 years. This collective act will establish a $1 million fund in Bro. George's memory. Eileen became involved when she visited the college and saw a poster with a drawing of Bro. George surrounded by the prayer of St. Francis. She immediately wanted a poster for her office but was told that posters are reserved for The Larkin Luminaries.

A highlight of his life, Bro. George Larkin, O.S.F. '60 meeting Pope Paul VI.

The goal of the 100 Friends is to invite 100 alumni and friends of Bro. George to make a commitment to give or raise $10,000 each, over the span of 10 years. This collective act will establish a $1 million fund in Bro. George's memory.

Eileen didn't wait. She signed up as one of the 100 Larkin Luminaries, and quickly got her brother Chris involved.

Money from the Larkin Luminaries goes to an extraordinary needs fund that will provide need-based scholarships, student-assistant programs and capital initiatives. But the Luminaries wasn't enough for the trio and they worked with the Office of Development to create the 100 Friends initiative, with a fundraising site, www.brothergeorge.kintera.org. Visitors to the site can become a Friend of Bro. George by making a commitment of either $1,000 per year for 10 years, or any combination that would meet a commitment of $10,000 over the course of a decade. The site also allows alumni, friends and family to light a candle in Bro. George's memory and share memories via an online poster board.

The fund is still in the early stages and excitement continues to build as word spreads. Reflecting on Bro. George and the importance of the fund, Eileen said, "Bro. George never wanted any credit. He was very humble. It's important to identify individuals who make such an impact." She believes the fund will "maintain his gracious way of dealing with students of all backgrounds" and will keep St. Francis College "a place to learn to grow."

When discussing the fund that will be created in Bro. George's name, Eileen remarked, "He gave his life to God, but he had more children than everybody. He was a father figure who became a great friend." Her brother Chris noted, "He was a behind-the-scenes person who moved mountains and didn't want credit for it." The three alumni agree that this is an effort to honor an extraordinary person. They hope Bro. George's influence will never be forgotten and his helping hand will continue to serve Terriers of today and tomorrow. •

Men's Hoops to Play St. John's and LIU in New Barclays Center

Sophomore Jalen Canon '15 looks to build on an impressive freshman Season.

The much-anticipated 2012-2013 season promises to be exciting for the Terriers. Glenn Braica's men's squad finished fourth in the Northeast Conference standings last season and hosted the school's first playoff game since 1997. Super sophomore Jalen Cannon and senior Akeem Johnson are two of the most talented frontcourt players in the league.

First, the Terriers take on St. John's in Brooklyn's new hoops mecca on Dec. 15.

Then the annual "Battle of Brooklyn" will be extra spicy this season as the fierce rivals take their competition to the new Barclays Center hardwood on Feb. 10. •

Chancellor Frank J. Macchiarola '62 Bestowed Papal Honor

Dr. Frank J. Macchiarola '62, Chancellor of St. Francis College, was honored by Pope Benedict XVI for his lifelong dedication to the Catholic Church at a ceremony October 28 at St. James Cathedral Basilica.

His Excellency, the Most Reverend Nicholas DiMarzio, Bishop of Brooklyn, bestowed upon Chancellor Macchiarola the Papal Honor of Knight Commander of the Holy Order of St. Gregory the Great.

Bishop DiMarzio said, "Dr. Macchiarola is a major figure in the public forum, particularly in New York City, and especially in the education of the millions of children of our city. At the same time, he has been an admirable Catholic and I am delighted that Dr. Macchiarola has been honored by this award."

New Era for Women's Hoops

First-year head coach John Thurston is set to lead the women's team into a new era adding three talented freshmen to the rotation of returning players. Look for a more seasoned and experienced team on the floor this year after so many of the returning players received valuable playing time as underclassmen last season. One of those, Jaymee Veney '15, was named to the NEC's All-Rookie Team.

Terriers' Athletic Support Staff Gets Major Upgrade

SFC's student-athletes are getting a big boost off the courts and fields with the addition of full-time staff for Strength and Conditioning in the Athletic Training Room. Andrew Cornicello is the Terriers' new Director of Athletic Training while Yuki Miyazawa is the new Head Strength and Conditioning Coach. In addition, trainers Armando Rodriguez and Lynson Willis were elevated to full-time status while Justine Stevenson is helping to prevent and treat injuries. Miyazawa also added recent graduate Max Barnhart '11 as the program's first assistant director of Strength and Conditioning.

Cornicello spent the past four years as Assistant Athletic Trainer at Manhattan College where he helped more than 300 student-athletes with injury prevention, acute care, treatment, assessment and rehabilitation. In addition, he assisted with the daily operations of the athletic training facility. "We are very lucky to be able to find someone as knowledgeable about athletic training as Andrew and I'm very excited for our student-athletes to get to work with him," said Director of Athletics Irma Garcia '80. "Andrew has some great ideas about keeping our student-athletes healthy."

Miyazawa spent the past three years as the Head Strength Coach at Queens College, where he built the varsity weight room. He was responsible for design and implementation of the year-round strength and conditioning program and helped to produce numerous All-American athletes each year. In addition, he collaborated with the nutrition department to teach about sports nutrition.

"Yuki brings a great amount of enthusiasm and knowledge to our program," said Garcia. "I believe that our student-athletes will benefit tremendously from his passion for strength, conditioning and nutrition." •

Terrier fans will notice a surge of new media content on the athletic department's interactive website, SFCathletics.com. With the launch of NEC Front Row, St. Francis is now part of an online community of live webcasts, highlights, features, and social media. The College has hired multimedia specialist Dexter Henry to expand SFC's new media presence.

A new Communications Office was also created to house a learning center for SFC students to perfect their craft in all aspects of sports journalism. "NEC Front Row has sparked a tremendous response from many of our own students who have an interest in this field," explained Athletic Communications Director David Gansell.

"I think our alumni and fans are going to be extremely impressed with the amount of high-level content that our office is producing on a weekly basis. Our goal is to keep the website fresh so people will want to come back for more. We also want to promote the great things that our student-athletes are doing both in and out of competition." •

Freshman Cross Country Runner Chantelle Blundell Impresses

Freshman sensation Chantelle Blundell '16, a native of Brush Prairie, WA, has been extremely impressive in her first season in a blue and red uniform. Her debut at the 4K Monmouth Invitational ended with Blundell placing 17th of 88 overall with a time of 15:32.7. In the Nassaney Women's College 5K in early September, she raced to 38th place out of 110 runners with a time of 19:22.7. Next, she was the Terriers number two finisher at the Iona College "Meet of Champions," crossing the finish line with a time of 24:08.13 in the 6K event.

Terriers' head coach Kyle Brown marvels at Blundell's quick adjustment to Division I competition. "I have big expectations for her. She's hard working which is evident in her good times. She creates this atmosphere that makes the rest of the team want to do well. It's clear that she's determined and motivated even with the major leap from high school competition to SFC. Sometimes for a freshman, whether it's in the classroom or on the field, adjustments can be difficult, but Chantelle seems up for the challenge." •

Tony Lombardo '74 Strength Through Stories

More than 30 years ago, multiple sclerosis (MS) took hold of Tony Lombardo '74. While MS may have damaged his body, it could not dampen his spirit.

Now he's trying to share that strength with others by helping to create a nonprofit organization called Let's Hear Your Story (LHYS). Its website, letshearyourstory.com, offers a collection of life stories from people who have overcome serious challenges.

"The reason why I have been able to make it to this point in my life is because of the individuals that I've met who illustrate and exemplify the true meaning of the word 'courage,'" said Lombardo, who gets around in an electric wheelchair. "I could never, ever repay them for what they have taught me."

Lombardo is now working with Director of Student Activities Ruben Gonzalez '04 to establish an LHYS chapter at St. Francis College.

"There are countless individuals within the St. Francis family with intense survival stories which could be posted. We'll gladly accept them anonymously," added Lombardo. "Every one of us, not just people who are struggling, can learn from these examples of emotional tenacity and the unlimited power of the human spirit."

The LHYS would like to hear from you. If you'd like to share your story, email Tony Lombardo (at justttt@verizon.net) or Ruben Gonzalez (at rgonzalez132@sfc.edu) for more information. •

Robbie Mitchell '96 – Hoops, a Diploma and a Lifelong Partner

By Alison Lowenstein

If Robbie Mitchell '96 had had his way almost 20 years ago, he never would have teamed up with Clare Guerriero '93 during a casual pick-up game on the St. Francis basketball court. Robbie was initially upset he had a girl on his team, but when she started to play, Clare quickly revealed her athletic skills.

What Robbie didn't know was that Clare, a star pitcher, had attended St. Francis on a full softball scholarship. She could also, it turned out, deftly handle a basketball. Fortunately, Robbie didn't say anything, and was quickly rewarded; he and Clare beat his soccer buddies 11–zip.

Now, more than 15 years later, Robbie still marvels at Clare's athletic abilities but he absolutely glows when he speaks about her as his wife and the mother of their three children.

The couple's romance blossomed after that little pick-up game. Clare graduated soon after they met and became the coach of the softball team. Robbie promised they'd get engaged "the second I graduated." He wasn't kidding.

As his graduation neared, Robbie and his future sister-in-law spray-painted a sheet with these words: "Clare, will you marry me?" With a ring and the sheet tucked beneath his gown, he accepted his diploma on the Brooklyn Academy of Music (BAM) stage. He immediately held up the sheet, realized it was backwards and quickly turned it around, he said laughing as he told the story. And then, he said, everyone went wild. Clare, who was in the audience, came up on stage and accepted Robbie's proposal. She remembers: "I was up in front taking pictures and thinking, what is he doing? It was very out of character. He doesn't say much. I'm the one who is always talking."

They married on Staten Island in 1998, where they now reside with their three children, Clare Lenore, 13; Robert, 11; and Mary-Lee, 9. In 1998, they also had the opportunity to return to St. Francis when Clare was inducted into the school's Athletic Hall of Fame.

Today, Clare is an elementary school science teacher; Robbie, a former police officer, is a fireman and works near BAM. (Last year on commencement day, Robbie was conducting an inspection at BAM and told his ladder company about his proposal. His colleagues didn't believe him until he sent them a copy of a 15-year-old article about his proposal.)

Clare fondly remembers their time at St. Francis; she says the atmosphere at the school made it easy to meet people. Recalling the day she met Robbie, "You felt like you were home at the gym. You felt comfortable being there." Robbie added, "I owe a lot to St. Francis College... St. Francis has a special place in our hearts." • are thankful for her miraculous progress, and to have recently celebrated her first birthday. The Paolos are now trying to raise money to help treat children like Charlotte at Maria Ferari Children's Hospital, which treats many children like their daughter. Terrisha Kears '05 – From Brooklyn to Hollywood

By Chandra Persaud '11

As the daughter of military parents, Terrisha Kears '05 thought she was destined for a career in criminal justice. Then she took a film class at St. Francis and realized that her love for film could be more than just love.

She remembers the moment vividly when she gained the confidence to pursue a path as a director. She was sitting in a classroom while her professor dissected Martin Scorsese's Taxi Driver. She knew she could do this. St. Francis's nurturing environment allowed her to pursue her new dream.

Kears is especially grateful for the strong relationships she built with Communication Arts Professors Lynne Jackson, Ph.D. and David Gerwitz. She credits them with playing an instrumental role in her development as a Film and Broadcasting major as well as providing endless support as she worked on assignments both in and out of the classroom.

After working on various film and music projects, Terrisha released her first feature film, 10-20 that won the HBO Best Feature Film Award at the 2009 Martha Vineyard's African American Film Festival. Kears says 10-20, which she screened at St. Francis in October 2009, holds a special place on her list of accomplishments.

Another highlight of Terrisha's career came earlier this year working as First Assistant Director on the television pilot Have You Met Miss Jones? which featured an all-star cast, including Oscar-nominated Patty McCormack.

"Having the opportunity to watch Patty McCormack was special. She's also a wonderful person to be around. We had a blast," says Terrisha.

This summer, Kears returned to where her dream took shape when she spent 31 days shooting another feature film in Brooklyn as well as in New Jersey and on Long Island.

Of the many things that Terrisha loves about her career, the ability to be creative ranks above all. She enjoys the process of taking a simple thought and morphing it into a script, "creating characters, moments, and circumstances." She also enjoys watching her scripts come to life, partaking in an intimate process with each actor.

Yet, even a dream-career comes with challenges and Terrisha's is no exception. Her biggest hurdle, usually, is a common one for artists: securing funding. "All filmmakers wish they could just create and not have to worry about where the money is coming [from], but it doesn't work that way," says Terrisha.

Looking ahead, Terrisha wants to continue to make films with a powerful message for her audience. She wants viewers to remember and relate to her characters.

Kears says she will never forget the guidance she received at St. Francis when she was a new film student and applies that lesson forward, never hesitating to share her knowledge with others. "The key ingredient someone learning from me will always remember is you have to build the first door and walk through it before any more doors will ever appear, meaning create your own opportunities and from there more will come. At least that has been my path in life." ●

Not even a month later she again appeared in major media when she was asked by El Diario what she thought of President Barack Obama's health care plans. "Getting the opportunity to voice my opinion and connect with people gave me a mini 'moment of glory' feeling."

A Magnet for St. Francis Educators

When Marcos Bausch '95, Principal of MS 126, the new Magnet School for Environmental Engineering, was looking to fill his teacher roster, he knew the perfect place to go: his alma mater.

"I've always loved St. Francis College for what they did for me academically. Naturally, I wanted to continue the relationship with St. Francis. When I was given the opportunity to hire a fellow alumnus, I could not pass it up," said Bausch.

Bausch was happy to hire Keri Leistman '12 to teach a sixth-grade math class.

"Without the love and dedication of the education department, I may not have been able to land a job straight out of college. My professors went above and beyond to prepare me for the real world. Even after graduation, Education Professor Peter Leibman '71 called me to check how my interview went, give me extra advice, and let me know he was proud of me," said Leistman.

MS 126 in Williamsburg, Brooklyn, has recently partnered with the St. Francis Education Department, further cementing the relationship and setting the foundation for future collaborations. ●

Sandy Tejada '08 – A Model of Success

By Toni Rich '09

There's no denying Sandy Tejada '08 is coming into bloom. Tejada is tackling the competitive world of modeling and acting in New York City, and our money is on her success.

But don't let her knock-out looks fool you; this woman has wit, intelligence and a seemingly endless amount of talent.

Growing up as the third child in a single-parent household in Queens, Tejada was taught independence and perseverance at a young age. "My mother taught me how to work hard and face challenges," Tejada explains. From early on, Tejada threw herself into numerous extracurricular activities including basketball, softball, swimming, and dancing.

Tejada eventually focused on softball and basketball hoping to get an athletic scholarship. It worked; the invitations poured in from schools. But the truth was, sports had ceased to be a passion and she chose a Presidential Academic Scholarship offered by St. Francis College.

"I look back now and realize that was the best decision I've ever made for myself," said Tejada.

Studying Communication Arts, Tejada found her calling in front of the camera. And she credits St. Francis with making that a possibility. "The small, intimate school really helped me find out what I wanted to do with my life. The professors genuinely care about their students," she recalls. St. Francis helped her learn all the skills she needed to manage her own career. "I edit my own photos, design my own website, and manage my own videos — they really taught me how to thrive."

After graduating high school in 2004, Tejada soon had the attention of directors and recruiters all around the city. She has been featured in print campaigns for Adidas, Conway clothing stores and on television shows on MTV and MTV2 such as Hip Hop Squares and Guy Code. "It's so strange to walk into an Adidas store and see your face on the side of the building, which felt great," she added.

Tejada is grateful for her success thus far given the nature of such a cutthroat industry. "You just have to be yourself and remember that you know what you're doing," she said. Her next goal is to make sure she gives back to the community that supported her by being a role model for the next group of kids growing up. "It's important to remember where you come from," she says referring to her Queens childhood. "Everyone has a story and mine's not finished yet." ●

You can find Sandy Tejada '08 everywhere from runways to fashion flyers to TV. Learn more on her website sandytejada.com.

James spent his career in education, working for the New York City Board of Education and then as a principal in Wantagh, NY and Syosset, NY before training teachers and administrators throughout the region as the Director of the Center for Integrated Teacher Education. He received the 2008 Alumni Board of Directors Appreciation Award for his decades of service on the Board. He also created a successful teacher prep program for aspiring educators at the College and provided leadership and support for the history boards that dot the Office of Alumni Affairs. James, 71, passed away on April 14, 2012. Patricia, 67, passed on Nov. 19, 2011. •

A frequent presence at St. Francis College, Bro. Joseph Moloney, O.S.F. '62 could be heard leading the choir at special events, singing the national anthem before basketball games, moderating the Troupers Theater Group or teaching students in Communication Arts classes. His humor and good nature brought a smile to all those around him.

After earning his History Degree from St. Francis, Bro. Joe earned a Master's Degree in Speech from NYU and another in Guidance and Rehab from Teachers College at Columbia University. He taught and coached at several grade schools before beginning work at Catholic Charities where he spent almost 30 years making sure disabled people got the services they needed.

A singer, gardener and chef, many also remember Bro. Joe for his campaign to get people to drink tap water instead of buying it bottled.

Bro. Joe passed away September 11, 2012. He was 76. •

Annual Donor Report

A Message from Denis J. Salamone '75 Development Committee Chairman

Denis J. Salamone '75

I am so proud of the fact that I am a graduate of SFC. In so many ways, I continue to be grateful for the opportunities it has made possible for me. Spring Commencement was a proud achievement for the College, as we graduated our largest class ever. This year, we welcomed our largest ever freshmen class. Everywhere you look, there are signs of growth and vitality and a bright future for SFC.

I am pleased and honored to place before you one of the largest list of donors ever — alumni, parents, friends, organizations and foundations that make big dreams come true.

The extensive list of donors and the increase in student population are not unrelated: the greater our success in terms of students, is all the more reason our success needs to be in providing the necessary funding and infrastructure to support that growth.

In every way SFC continues to prosper: from state-of-the-art science labs and lecture halls, to improvements in the aquatic center; from new course offerings and faculty, to continued success in the various arenas of athletics.

But in many ways we continue what has always been the hallmark of SFC: an affordable, Franciscan inspired education and preparation for life, all supported and maintained by stellar generosity and dedication. So my fellow benefactors of the Small College of Big Dreams:

A HEARTFELT THANK YOU.

Thomas F. Flood Vice President for Development

Thomas F. Flood

As I sit to write this note I have before me two things: one, the long list of names on our Honor Roll of Donors that occupy the greater portion of this magazine, and two, the reality of arriving to work this morning.

Making my way along Remsen Street as usual, up the steps, and through the open doors of our College, it was unmistakable this was the beginning of a new academic year. The entrance was full of the chatter and bustle of new and returning students, excited friends, our dedicated faculty and staff, our beloved Franciscan Brothers, and others, who together make up our wonderful house of learning and life. I witness, firsthand, the tangible reason for our gratitude to you for being one of the names on our Roll of Honor. And here, once again, was the unmistakable impetus for our service and generosity.

Where would a College be without students? Where would our College be without your support?

For over 150 years, SFC has educated and prepared countless students for life — perhaps you are one of them. Each and every benefactor listed on the following pages, makes this possible. Thank you, thank you, thank you. You should be proud of the part you have played in changing lives and sustaining a mission that fosters an attitude of gratitude.

But this morning's entrance into SFC reminded me we are entrusted with making our history real again and again.

This year we admitted nearly 700 freshmen — the largest class ever. It is your on-going support and selfless sacrifices that will propel the next generation forward to carry on the Franciscan heritage of excellence and service. Your support is educating a brighter, better future not only for our students but for the world into which they will graduate.

Thank you and may God continue to bless you for your continued generosity.

Shine a Light that lasts...

Through the St. Clare Society, St. Francis College honors those alumni, parents and friends of SFC who have made bequests and other planned gifts — of all sizes — that support our students in meaningful ways and embrace their efforts to succeed. Virginia and Bernard Femminella, members of the St. Clare Society, were touched by St. Francis College in a way that inspired them to brighten the future for SFC students through a generous legacy gift. Although not alumni themselves, the message of St. Francis' mission and the reach of our alumni extend far beyond Brooklyn and all the way to Korea, Washington, D.C. and Minnesota where the Femminellas lived. Whether it was Bernard's Brooklyn roots, the attending of an SFC event, or a chance encounter with an SFC student, faculty member or alumnus, the Femminellas recognized the importance of SFC's mission and responded in a visionary and generous way with a legacy gift of more than $325,000.

If you have already included St. Francis College in your estate plans, please contact the Development Office at (718) 489-5361 so that we may express our appreciation and ensure that your plans are fulfilled as you intend. You may visit www.sfc.edu/plannedgiving to find more information on how Bequests and Planned Gifts work, including sample gift language for your Will or Revocable Living Trust.

Below is an example of Residual Gift Language (a residual bequest comes to us after your estate expenses and specific bequests are paid):

I give and devise to St. Francis College, located in Brooklyn Heights, NY, all (or state a percentage) of the rest, residue, and remainder of my estate, both real and personal, to be used for its general support (or for the support of a specific fund or program).

THE FUND FOR ST. FRANCIS COLLEGE

The Fund for St. Francis College is the lifeblood of the college — benefiting virtually every person, place and program at SFC. With the generosity of caring alumni, friends and supporters of the college, SFC remains steadfast in maintaining an affordable tuition for students without compromising the quality of its education.

The Annual Fund also enables SFC to enhance student, faculty and campus-wide resources and distribute thousands of unrestricted dollars to deserving and/or disadvantaged students as needed.

IS YOUR NAME NOT LISTED?

It could be because:

- You made your gift after June 30, 2011, the end of the fiscal year. Gifts received after June 30 will be recognized in the next annual donor report.
- You asked that your gift be anonymous.
- While every effort goes into the accuracy of this report, an error can occur. If we have made an error or omission please accept our sincerest apologies and notify us to ensure that our records are corrected.

Please call the Office of Development and Alumni Affairs at 718.489.5361 or e-mail development@sfc.edu with any questions, comments or concerns.

THE SCHOLARSHIP PROGRAM

Through the Scholarship program, SFC continues its long history of providing scholarship aid to students pursuing their dream of higher education. Many of the 256 scholarships were created to honor or memorialize a favorite professor, a cherished friend, or a beloved spouse.

All of the scholarships were created by individuals who strongly believe in St. Francis College's commitment to its students and their pursuit of success.

Think you need a fortune to fund a St. Francis College scholarship? Think again!

St. Francis College offers many ways to help our benefactors meet their giving and financial goals — and you don't need a fortune to invest to experience the joys and personal growth charity brings.

You can establish your own scholarship fund with a gift of $100,000 or more or you can create a sunset / term fund in memory or honor of a special individual with as little as $10,000. If you wish, you may further advance these funds by contributing at a subsequent time.

Scholarships can be established through outright gifts or a variety of planned-giving options including bequest, charitable remainder trusts, lead trusts, gifts of insurance, etc.

Friends of SFC also have the option of making a contribution to an existing scholarship fund at any time. A comprehensive list of all scholarships is detailed in this stewardship report .

Please consider leaving a legacy of gratitude and hope to future generations of SFC students and to a Franciscan tradition with proven results.

Contact the Development Office today to see how we can help you fund a scholarship 718.489.5361 or e-mail development@sfc.edu
