

Position: Senior Adjunct Lecturer, Creative Writing

Department: English

Reports to: Department Chair, English

Summary: St. Francis College is pleased to announce the planned launch of a Low Residency Master of Fine Arts (MFA) Program beginning in the Summer of 2017. The College is therefore recruiting creative, innovative teacher-practitioners who have significant professional accomplishment to teach MFA courses as a member of the College's part-time faculty. Please note that hiring is contingent upon funding and enrollment.

Salary: $1,200 per credit hour

Overview of Teaching Duties: Teach MFA program courses both on and off campus. Lead panel discussions, lectures, craft seminars, genre workshops, master classes, applicant selection and a variety of formal and informal social activities. Work long distance with students, exchange regularly scheduled packets of student work and respond to students.

Qualifications:

- An MFA or other terminal degree in Creative Writing (or closely related field).
- Ability to teach classes on campus for no less than two biannual, 10 day residencies.
- Commitment to cultural diversity and equity.
- Strong record of and potential for continued publication.
- Experience with on-line and hybrid teaching and related methodologies.
- Candidates invited to interview will be asked to provide three letters of reference.

Interested applicants can apply by clicking here.

About St. Francis College:

St. Francis College located in Brooklyn Heights, New York, is a private, independent, co-educational urban college whose Franciscan and Catholic traditions underpin its commitment to academic excellence, spiritual and moral values, physical fitness, social responsibility and life-long learning. We educate the whole person for a full, relational life, developing the students' talents and abilities to form confident alumni well prepared for graduate study, for meaningful, fulfilling careers, as well as for collaborative, service-oriented leadership. The College strives to offer ample opportunities for students to immerse themselves in the intellectual, cultural and professional opportunities afforded by New York City and to serve the needs of the local community in which they live and study.

The College provides a quality, accessibly priced education to students from the five Boroughs of New York City and well beyond. Specifically, our students experience a strong liberal arts core curriculum integrated with pre-professional programs in a wide range of disciplines, designed to prepare them for the rigors of an increasingly technological and globalized marketplace and society. Excellence of instruction, small classes and professors' individual attention to each student create a hospitable community atmosphere, based on trust and mutual respect. These foster the development of critical thinking, moral choices, responsible citizenship and personal commitment to social justice and the environment. Our location in Brooklyn Heights provides a confluence of cultures and religious beliefs, mirroring our commitment to maintain and celebrate our diverse student body.